PICNIC WAS AN ORGIE.

Senator Sullivan's Outing a Gambler's Paradise.

Senator Timothy D. Sullivan's constituents were discussing with great gusto this morning the details of the happenings of the Senator's outing, which took place yesterday at Donnelly's Grove, borough of Queens. It was the universal sentiment that it was a "peach" of a picnic.

There are others who are not so enthusiastic about it. They are the foolish persons who went along as spectators and had their pockets picked or were fleeced out of their money by the slower but no less certain process of bucking against the gambling layouts that were as thick in the College Point grounds as fish carts in Mulberry land.

Gamblers with "privileges" pickpockets who asked no favors of the police, and prize-fighters of high and low degree were there in unlimited numbers and audacity. They defied nearly every law of the State and did it, too, under the protection of several police captains and sergeants, and hundreds of detectives and uniformed policemen.

The steamer Grand Republic took 300 of Sullivan's friends to the grounds. "Tim" himself was in the first rank with "Kid" McCoy, Tom Sharkey and Terry McGovern.

On the steamboat an hour before the start gambling went on at full blast. "Red and black," "sweet" and "Klondike" layouts were installed on the first and second decks and ran till College Point was reached.

Then the gamblers hastily gathered up their paraphernalia and set them up in the grove. Scores of others had preceded them, so that almost every tree trunk was the support of a wheel of fortune, and the space around was crowded with layouts.

Senator Sullivan, with Mike Padden and four other congenial spirits, started a poker game in the billiard rooms. A two-dollar limit was too slow, and became unlimited. One not amounted to $50. Sullivan was not the winner.

In the midst of this carnival of gambling early in the afternoon two lads, not more than fifteen years old, fought a prize-fight of nine rounds until the smaller of the two was covered with blood to the waist. The bout was refereed by Policeman Feeney in citizen's clothes, and one of the seconds was a lad of seven years.

Three other brutal fights were contested within the same hour ring before the Sullivan's' thrust for blood was quenched. All the while liquor flowed like water, and men and boys stupefied by drink lay about the grounds fast asleep.
